

Wisconsin 911 Service 2004

All counties in the state have 911 in place. Basic 911 service refers to the emergency reporting system where a caller can dial one number (911) for emergency services.

Enhanced 911 or E911 is a service that has a minimum of two features. E911 provides ANI (Automatic Number Identification) and ANL (Automatic Number Location) to the 911 operator.

The Public Service Commission is now in the process of writing a rule to address the funding of wireless enhanced 911. Implementation of the wireless E911 service will begin in 2004 as counties complete installation of compatible terminal equipment.

Map 7

January 2004
Public Service Commission